Ghent, 15.11.2018 - After their joint win last year, Kenny De Ketele and Moreno De Pauw will be in various teams at the six-day race in Gent, one of which climbed to first place on the second night, while the others suffered a setback. While De Ketele, along with Robbe Ghys, scored the most points to take the lead thanks to a bonus round by Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga, De Pauw and Lindsay De Vylder emerged from the hunts with one round of loss as big losers.

Lap loss for De Vylder / De Pauw

Also on the second night, the Zesdaagse Vlaanderen again had two hunts (Madisons) over 45 and 30 minutes respectively, the results of which largely made up for each other - with one exception. The first of these two Madison races was won by Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys, who arrived in the clear with Iljo Keisse / Elia Viviani, Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande and Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt. Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga and Otto Vergaerde / Jules Hesters lost one lap, but they could make up for that later in the second hunt. Lindsay De Vylder / Moreno De Pauw had a slightly different experience: the team with last year's winner De Pauw even won the second hunt and won a round there, but had two (!) Loss hours in the first hunt. Disregarding the scores, five of the seven top teams would remain in the same group - one lap behind Havik / Stroetinga and one in front of De Vylder / De Pauw. But in reality, these two teams are not on the squares one and seven, but four and five - are responsible for bonus rounds.

The scissors are far apart

The points difference between the best and the worst team from the top 7 of the overall standings increased from 31 to 53 points in the second night, only four teams have already surpassed the hundred mark. Havik / Stroetinga (78) are not part of the reason why the Dutch have lost their leadership from the first night. At the top are De Ketele / Ghys (129), who collected a total of 72 points by winning the first hunt and podium places in both time trials, the team elimination and one points and one Deryn race, and Keisse / Viviani (122) replaced the best team. De Buyst / Van der Sande (106) are still within reach of these two teams. De Vylder / De Pauw (116) also had a very good evening with wins in both time trials, a Deryn run as well as the second hunt and a total of 68 points scored, but are now just like the Madison due to their poor performance in the first hunt World Champion Kluge / Reinhardt (86) and Vergaerde / Hesters (76) one lap behind.

U23: Frederiksen / Malmberg take the lead

The Danes Oliver Frederiksen / Matias Malmberg advanced from third to first place in the second night of the U23 competition with a victory in one of the two point races as well as the lap time trial. In the next places follow the British Rhys Britton / Will Tidball (30 points) and the Belgians Arne De Groote / Nicolas Wernimont (21), the second night after their strong first night in which they had taken leadership less inconspicuous acted. In contrast, the Germans Nils Weispfennig / Calvin Dik (19) could improve from sixth place to four by the victory in the second point race. All this is but only Vorgeklänkel, because only in the 3rd Night it is with the first hunt really serious for the young drivers.

Ghent, 16.11.2018 - Three teams in the free round and three more exactly one lap behind, that's the position at the halfway stage of the Ghent six-day race. Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande and Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt made it into the first two places on the third night, while Iljo Keisse / Elia Viviani and Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys are still the teams with the most points. Dane Bryan Boussaer and Belgian Martin Mollerup clinched a solo victory in the first U23 race.

World Champion Kluge / Reinhardt win the only hunt

In the third night of the Zesdaagse Vlaanderen there was a very slightly modified race program compared to the previous days: in addition to the two normal Deryn races, there was an additional Deryn final, but only a single hunt. Deryn kings were Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys in front of Iljo Keisse / Elia Viviani, because De Ketele was able to prevail in the final spurt of the finals against Keisse. Just under three hours earlier, however, these two couples had suffered a small setback in the 45-minute hunt, as they lost there - just like Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga and Otto Vergaerde / Jules Hesters - a round on the victorious Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt and Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande. At the end of the night, when all the top teams were above the 100-point mark, but no one had reached 200, De Buyst / Van der Sande and Kluge / Reinhardt teamed up with Havik / Stroetinga on the first night had won a round in the clear, while the other three teams had one round behind.

Keisse / Viviani and De Ketele / Ghys continue with points advantage

De Buyst / Van der Sande, who recorded a total of seven Top3 results on Thursday night, are clearly the best of the three zero-round teams with 162 points. The hunt winners Kluge / Reinhardt (134) can not compete there, Havik / Stroetinga (111) even less. Keisse / Viviani (179), who scored a points race, team selection, Supersprint and a Deryn forerunner, were just able to recapture De Ketele / Ghys (175) points lead - both remain dangerous despite and now one lap behind the leaders have a good chance to retake a bonus round until the final chase on Sunday more than most competitors. For Vergaerde / Hesters (112), the odds of victory or podium are meanwhile much lower in the event of a round gap and comparatively few points. Out of the race for the top places are Lindsay De Vylder and last year's winner Moreno De Pauw, who once again won both time trials but lost three (!) laps in the hunt and finished four laps in total.

U23: Last year's winner Boussaer with a new partner again top

On the third night there was the first hunt in the offspring, as expected by the points classification of the first two nights was whirled around. The Dane Bryan Boussaer - last year's overall winner with the Jules Hesters, who participated this time in the pros - and the Belgian Martin Mollerup had remained fairly unobtrusive on Tuesday and Wednesday, but are now in the clear round after a sovereign hunt success. The Danes Oliver Frederiksen / Matias Malmberg, the Belgians Arne De Groot / Nicolas Wernimont, the Britons Samuel Watson / Zach Bridges and the Germans Nils Weispfennig / Calvin Dik all have more points than the leaders, but just one lap behind. These six-days have already ended prematurely for the well-started British Rhys Britton / Will Tidball, who were relieved of the 500 meter time trial won by Frederiksen / Malmberg: Britton suffered a broken collarbone in a violent crash

Ghent, 17.11.2018 - The fourth night of the six-day race in Ghent was the best so far of Iljo Kisse / Elia Viviani and Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys, who not only collected the most points again, but also took a break from their opponents. Thus, both teams prove the first two places in the overall standings, as they did after the second night, but not only thanks to more bonus rounds. In the U23 competition, Ryan Boussaer / Martin Mollerup defended their lap lead and in the first women's race Lotte Kopecky won.

Close duel Kisse / Viviani against De Ketele / Ghys

It did not last long on Friday when Iljo Kisse / Elia Viviani and Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys were the first teams to reach the 200-point mark as first and second placed team winners. Due to the bonus round due, they made up for the backlog they had after the first three nights against the weaker Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande, Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt and Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga had shown. This shift in the balance of power was driven forward by the 45-minute hunt, because in this race Kisse / Viviani and De Ketele / Ghys could achieve a round win more than their competitors, which they were now in the overall standings in the free round. In the sprint duel for the hunting victory, Kisse prevailed just against Ghys and thus built the points lead for themselves and Viviani to 13 points. However, De Ketele / Ghys were then able to catch up with them thanks to better results in Supersprint, Derny, Scratch and a time trial of 500 meters. But because Kisse / Viviani finished third in the 30-minute hunt and De Ketele / Ghys only finished fifth, the two Quick-Step pros were in the top of the ranking after all.

Three of the top five teams with a bonus round advantage

Keisen / Viviani has 244 points, De Ketele / Ghys 240 - it will be a trivial matter for them to enter a third bonus round at the final weekend. De Buyst / Van der Sande also have the opportunity to do so, standing at 218 points and with the Top2 in the clear round. In comparison, the German Kluge / Reinhardt and the Dutch Havik / Stroetinga with scores of 161 and 158 have a big disadvantage, because they are due to their missing second bonus a round back and will most likely not get rid of this handicap. For the sixth placed Otto Vergaerde / Jules Hesters, the podium is definitely out of reach, although the two Belgians could win the second hunt, in which the top teams were all round even, won. In the first hunt they had lost three laps, four are now behind the top and two before Lindsay De Vylder / Moreno De Pauw.

U23: Boussaer / Mollerup defend their lap lead

Excluding Rhys Britton, who crashed his collarbone in a crash on Thursday, and partner Will Tidball, the U23 riders went on Friday for the second race, which was ended by eight teams on the same lap. The Danish-Belgian duo Bryan Boussaer / Martin Mollerup (52 points) was able to claim his lead on the third night with a lead over the attacking Oliver Frederiksen / Matias Malmberg (138) and Samuel Watson / Zach Bridges (84) - the Danes stay second, the British climb to second place. The German Nils Weispfennig / Calvin Dik improved from fifth place to four, because the previous third placed Arne De Groot / Nicolas Wernimont lost a round.

Women: Sprintstarke Wild missed the podium in the points race

Only two instead of three days, the women are active in Ghent this year: on Saturday is for them an omnium on the program, on Friday there was initially a point race. This was initially dominated by Kirsten Wild, who quickly took the lead with a win and a second place finish in the first two of the eight sprint races. But then the tide turned by a round win by Lotte Kopecky, which was no longer displaced in the episode from the top. In the end, the Belgian won (35 points) just ahead of the Australian Amy Cure (33) and the Dutchman Kirstie van Haften (32), who also each scored twenty points for a round win, while it brought Wild alone through the sprints to 29 points, but in the end only enough for fourth place.

Ghent, 18.11.2018 - After the fifth night of the Ghent six-day race, it's clear what has been going on for a while: in theory, five teams go into the final, but their big point deficit is Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga and Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt as good as chance. The victory will be decided by Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys, Iljo Keisse / Elia Viviani and Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande. In U23, Bryan Boussaer / Martin Mollerup are still in the free round and in the women's race Kirsten Wild won the Omnium.

Five teams with the same number of rounds, but ...

The two hunts on Saturday night were without consequences for the total score of the Zesdaagse Vlaanderen, as their results offset each other. The long 45-minute chase was won by Jasper De Buyst / Tosh Van der Sande after a big fight, but Kenny De Ketele / Robbe Ghys, Iljo Keisse / Elia Viviani and Roger Kluge / Theo Reinhardt were all with them. Of the five teams that still battled for the overall title, only Yoeri Havik / Wim Stroetinga had suffered a loss round, but could do so in the 25-minute hunt, where they shared the field with Lindsay De Vylder / Moreno De Pauw and the in the final sprint victorious Otto Vergaerde / Jules Hesters took a lap, made up for it. So, at the end of the fifth night, there were still five teams that would have stood in the clear round if there were not such large differences in points between them.

... Havik / Stroetinga and Kluge / Reinhardt virtually no chance

De Ketele / Ghys, who had already been at the top after the second night, are leading the last day, but are only three tiny dots in front of Keisse / Elia Viviani. The lead between the two teams has changed three times: when Ghys won in the final sprint duel of the team just before Viviani, when the Italian later won the Supersprint and finally finished in the points with only De Ketele / Ghys in the 500m time trial. With 304 and 301 points De Ketele / Ghys and Keisse / Viviani have already brought their third bonus round, which will also reach De Buyst / Van der Sande (283) on Sunday still loose. Havik / Stroetinga (214) and Kluge / Reinhardt (200) will definitely not be able to do that anymore, which is why they will start the final hunt one lap behind where they would have to take the Top3 two (!) Laps each to win those sixdays yet.

U23: Boussaer / Mollerup are still one lap ahead

No change in the status quo resulted in the 210-round U23 hunt on Saturday, as none of the six strongest teams were able to win the other rounds. Thus, the very defensive, but also very sovereign driving Bryan Boussaer / Martin Mollerup (59 points) remain the sole front runners since their round win the 3rd night. As there are no bonus rounds, Oliver Frederiksen / Matias Malmberg (158) and Samuel Watson / Zach Bridges (120) are still one lap behind despite more than a hundred points. The Germans Nils Weispfennig / Calvin Dik (79), on Saturday second in the hunt behind the victorious for the second time in a row Watson / Bridges, consolidated their fourth place.

Women: In the Omnium Wild succeed this time also a round win

After the missed podium in the points race on Friday, when three opponents had beaten their sprint strength with lap wins, the World and European champion Kirsten Wild on Saturday superior in the Omnium won the victory. After victories in the Scratch and Ausscheidungsfahren and in between a third place in the Temporunden the Dutch went with four points ahead of their strongest competitor, the winning on Friday Belgian Lotte Kopecky, in the final points race - and this distance increased already in the first two of eight sprints to ten points. In the middle of the race, both of them raced out together and Wild finally won clearly with 156 to 144 points. Kopecky had already given up the fight on the last two sprint stages, but there was another interesting duel: the Norwegian Anita Stenberg won ahead of the Belgian Jolien D'Hoore on both occasions and secured third place in the final ranking with 130 to 120 points.
